

Corrigendum to “Reconstruction of precipitating electrons and three-dimensional structure of a pulsating auroral patch from monochromatic auroral images obtained from multiple observation points” published in Ann. Geophys., 40, 475–484, 2022

Mizuki Fukizawa¹, Takeshi Sakanoi², Yoshimasa Tanaka^{1,3,4}, Yasunobu Ogawa^{1,3,4}, Keisuke Hosokawa⁵, Björn Gustavsson⁶, Kirsti Kauristie⁷, Alexander Kozlovsky⁸, Tero Raita⁸, Urban Brändström⁹, and Tima Sergienko⁹

¹National Institute of Polar Research, Tachikawa 190-8518, Japan

²Graduate School of Science, Tohoku University, Sendai 980-8578, Japan

³Polar Environment Data Science Center, Joint Support-Center for Data Science Research, Research Organization of Information and Systems, Tachikawa 190-0014, Japan

⁴Department of Polar Science, The Graduate University for Advanced Studies (SOKENDAI), Tachikawa 190-8518, Japan

⁵Graduate School of Informatics and Engineering, University of Electro-Communications, Chofu 182-8585, Japan

⁶Department of Physics and Technology, Arctic University of Norway (UiT), 9037 Tromsø, Norway

⁷Space Research and Observation Technologies, Finnish Meteorological Institute, 00101 Helsinki, Finland

⁸Sodankylä Geophysical Observatory, University of Oulu, 90014 Oulu, Finland

⁹Solar Terrestrial Atmosphere Research Program (STAR), Swedish Institute of Space Physics (IRF), 981 28 Kiruna, Sweden

Correspondence: Mizuki Fukizawa (fukizawa.mizuki@nipr.ac.jp)

Published: 10 October 2022

During the typesetting of the paper, two typographical errors were accidentally inserted. The errors are in the equations given in the second paragraph on p. 477. The equations $f = \exp(\Sigma)$ and $\Sigma^{(0)} = \log(f^{(0)})$ should thus be changed to $f = \exp(x)$ and $x^{(0)} = \log(f^{(0)})$, respectively.